Dear Neighbors,

By the time you read this, I will have paid my 1st half property tax bill, which is now 55% of last year’s total of the two bills (it used to be 50%, but I guess the County officials who lay and collect the property taxes reckon that we’re less likely to notice a huge increase in the second bill if the 1st half bill is higher: who says these folks are dumb?). One new feature of the new bill is that it gives the taxing unit’s budget, its pension liability, and then the portion of that pension liability that is “unfunded”. While I am neither an actuary nor an accountant, I suspect that “unfunded” means that the City or the School Board or whatever hasn’t put that money in the bank to pay for future pensions. Whether this new disclosure is to soften us up for future tax increases may be cynical speculation, but I can just hear Toni Preckwinkle and Rahm Emanuel chuckling in some back room: “We showed these peons how bad it is, then shamed them that retired teachers and firemen and police officers will have to go begging for their pensions if they don’t pony up. And then continue to re-elect us”.

Of course one of the many benefits of paying property taxes is the police protection that we receive, and for our March meeting, we have invited the new commander of the 19th District, Elias Voulgaris, to address us. It has been more than a year since the 19th and 23rd Districts were consolidated in the new police station on Addison just west of Halsted, and I haven’t noticed any increase in crime or nastiness in this area. Still, two years ago, there were a series of break-ins and assaults along Barry, and I for one would like to know what changes have been made to beats, foot v. car patrols, and other police functions as a result of the consolidation of the districts. While it is the gun violence that gets the headlines, it is the day-to-day police work that yields real improvements in the quality of life in Chicago. Come to our March meeting to ask questions of our new commander.

March 1 is the start of meteorological spring, or so Tom Skilling says, and while we may not be able to dig into our gardens then, it is not too early to think about what we can do to spruce up our neighborhood. Several years ago, I built a masonry parkway planter to dress up a dismally drab streetscape on Southport. I have the usual ornamental plants there, but one year I planted some non-native grasses (bought at one of the high end garden stores about three miles from here) to fill in the middle zone between the ground cover and the lilacs. Bad idea. They lasted a season and did not return. A friend, Charlotte Adelman, has written with her husband a book entitled “The Midwestern Native Garden”, and she will come to our meeting to tell us of the virtues of planting native species instead of the greenhouse bred annuals that we can buy just about anywhere: less water usage, plants that are survivable under our extreme weather conditions. Still, there may be a happy ending to my story: late last summer some grasses miraculously appeared in this front planter without any effort on my part, and kept growing well into the fall. I’m hoping they’ll return, like the swallows at Capistrano.

Later this spring, we’ll be having our annual election of new officers and director. Volunteers for both the nominating committee and for our board and officer corps are asked to speak to our able secretary, Bill Haderlein.

Just think: a month after our March meeting will be opening day. Hope springs eternal.

Until the 12th.

Sincerely, David G. Duggan

MARCH 2013 MEETING PREVIEW

District 19 Commander Voulgaris

Commander Voulgaris is the new commander of the Town Hall District that was combined with the former Belmont District. The District now encompasses the area between Lawrence to Fullerton and from the Lake to the Chicago River on the west. The operations are run out of the new police station on Addison just west of Halsted. The Commander has contacted various groups to introduce himself and meet the residents and will be appearing at the March meeting. This is the first time in almost 20 years that the standing Commander has reached out to meet personally with neighborhood groups. Show your appreciation by attending this months meeting. Commander Voulgaris can be contacted at elias.voulgaris@chicagopolice.org.

The Midwest Native Garden

Charlotte Adelman who is the author of The Midwest Native Garden will give a presentation on the subject. Topics may include native plant suggestions, growing requirements, attraction of birds, and reduction of pesticides and water usage. Ms. Adelman’s book has been positively reviewed by The National Gardener and Audubon Magazine and will be available for purchase.

St. Alphonsus Octoberfest

It is never too early to plan. The Octoberfest Committee has requested a few minutes to gauge the feelings of the neighborhood and to reveal plans for this Fall. Gemutlikeit.

AT FEBRUARY MEETING

Lathrop Homes – current Developer Plans
The appointed developer Lathrop Community Partners (LCP) and the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) presented the current three versions for redevelopment of the property to the SLN membership and to a large contingent of Lathrop residents, community activists, internet news reporters and men in great looking suits.

A little history. The current site has 925 units. 170 of the units are currently occupied by families. The original design was that of an enclosed “super-block” design. A large green space is in the center of the area north of Diversey. Lathrop Elderly is located at the south end and will survive all current plans. The CHA’s original marching orders to the developers was for 1200 units of 400 low-income, 400 affordable and 400 market rate.

The Developer’s Current Plans as presented:
All three of the current plans are for approximately 1600 units consisting of 400 low-income units, 400 affordable units and 800 market rate units. The developer showed the membership a very slick video presentation.

A short summary of the three plans are:
(All plans can be viewed at www.lathropcommunity.org.)

The Greenscapes:
All buildings are new. The old buildings are demolished. Creates a 5 acre riverside park. 3 new street connections to Clybourn and 2 new street connections to Damen that replace the current super-block with 4 typical Chicago blocks. Community facility along river. Creates neighborhood retail through small shopping centers. No buildings taller than the current Lathrop Elderly building south of Diversey. Many buildings are 8 stories tall.

The Riverworks:
Retains and remodels existing buildings. Keeps the Great Lawn design of the interior courtyard area. Pedestrian paths to Clybourn. 3 new streets to connect Damen to the south area. Multi-use community center in the center of the site. Creates a “Main Street” of neighborhood retail on Damen. Two new residential towers will be built at each end of the project. The south tower is 27 stories and the north tower is 18 stories tall.

The Gateways:
Reuses a critical mass of the existing buildings but makes extensions to these buildings. New Midway public park. Street connections to Damen and Clybourn. Community facility at end of Midway park. Neighborhood retail around a central “town square.” New residential tower at the south end is 27 stories. Many north section buildings are 8 stories high.

The presentation was disrupted several times by people complaining that this information was old news and presented at previous neighborhood meetings. Some disgruntled people said that a “Master Plan” was near final as reported in the newspapers and why isn’t that plan being presented. The developer noted they were in a process of presenting plans, getting feed-back and coming up with a “Master Plan.” The developers claimed there was no Master Plan at this point.

After the presentation was completed there were several questions regarding financing – private, public, TIF and real estate taxes that the project will generate for the City. Overall complaints followed a pattern of too dense, too much traffic, not enough public services or public transportation, not enough low-income housing units, minority jobs during construction, developers not being responsive to the community. All complaints, no positive comments were issued by anyone.

The Developer went over the results of surveys done in November and on-line focusing on issues deemed important in the surveys. The main points of the survey were: 1) support for restoration or reuse of current buildings, 2) people favored overall lower-height development but a taller building at the south end is more acceptable, 3) 1600 units is too dense and 4) increased traffic conditions at the already congested Damen/Clybourn/Diversey intersection. These and other issues are being incorporated into the final Master Plan.

The Developer whispered at the of the meeting that the final unit number, considering all the negative response, may be around 1300. Can you live with that?

The finalization process is unclear. The Developer indicated that they are shooting for an end of March date for the Master Plan. SLN has been contacted by other neighborhood groups to join forces. We will keep you posted.

1248 W. George St (La Vida Lounge) - Rezoning
As previously reported, this property is the former La Vida Lounge across the street from The Elbo Room.

The owner/developer intends to convert the building into his own single family house. The current building’s 1st floor goes lot-line to lot-line. The 2nd floor extends from the front to about half way back. Construction is 100% brick. There is no basement.

As is often the case, the plans produced and voted on by the NDRC and information flyered to the immediate neighborhood was revised at the last minute by the owner. The owner presented revised plans that added a 3rd floor on top of the 2nd floor with no rear extension of floors 2 and 3 and the elimination of the penthouse building on the 4th floor. Garden decks will be installed on the garage roof and the 3rd floor roof. In order to access the 3rd floor roof decks, staircases with surrounding walls will be constructed. The height of the 3rd floor will be 39’1”. The stairwells to the 4th floor will measure 46’1”. In order to build to these specifications, the property will have to be rezoned to RT-5. This version reduced the overall size of the building from the original plans.

Joe Semerling, Chairman NDRC, presented the opinion of the NDRC which was a 4 to 4 tie with one abstention. The floor was opened for comments, with Mr. Semerling soliciting comments from residents who live near the project. Several nearby residents spoke favorably about the project, citing the cooperation of the owner with concerns the neighbors had over the size of the original proposals and elimination of the business zoning which will preclude any business (bar, restaurant, night club) from ever occupying this site. 100% of the nearby residents were in favor of the project. A hand vote was taken. In favor, YES=35, against NO=0 ABSTAIN=2. The vote has been communicated to the Alderman.

If the project is approved by the Alderman, SLN and the owner have agreed to a restrictive covenant that will rezone the property back to RT4 after completion of construction.

MEETING SITE CHANGE -THANK YOU PERRY
24 hours before the SLN meeting, there was a realization that St. Alphonsus was using the Church basement for their Mardi Gras celebration. Perry Castrovillari, neighborhood man-about-town and St. Alphonsus employee retained the School basement for our meeting and took care of all of the last minute (and it was last minute) set-up. Thank you, my man.

RESTAURANT REVIEW – by Joni G
Fireside Restaurant and Lounge, 5739 N.
Ravenswood
For a supper club experience without driving all the way to Wisconsin, you can head up to the north side of Chicago for wonderful dining, country atmosphere and very friendly service. We try to visit this cozy spot at least once a year. Usually it is not during the peak of winter because they do have a wonderful patio to relax, chat and dine during the summer. This winter evening was a sheer delight mainly due to the very warm fireside table where we were seated and of course a hearty meal with drinks.

Besides the very generous selection of tap, bottle and craft beers, there is a nice offering of wines, as well as a full bar. The Fireside offers daily specials, which some of our party took advantage of. For starters we had the baked artichoke heart special. This was not your typical veggie dip that is served at a bridal shower and/or super bowl party. These were whole baked artichoke hearts in a slightly creamy sauce served with crispy bread.

For entrees all of us were unique in our choosing. I had the Cajun meatloaf which was stuffed with Andouille sausage. The meatloaf had a perfect texture and not too chewy or mushy. I only came upon a little of the spicy sausage. The tomato based sauce on top was gently spiced but the broccoli on the side was almost raw.

Instead of mac and cheese on the side, one of us ordered an entrée with a similar name, which means you get lots more and this one the Fireside calls Gouda and Mac. A big YUM, with crisp prosciutto and peas and a very mild cheese which did not seem to taste like it would go directly to your waistline, although I am sure it did.

The more health conscience diner ordered the blackened salmon with a small side of mac and cheese. He was impressed with the salmon preparation, presentation and taste although the soupy mac and cheese was lacking to whet his appetite, especially after tasting the Gouda and Mac.

Another special was Brisket Enchiladas, although I did not taste any. It was reported to be so good that she thought she was dining in a true Mexican restaurant. In fact she ate the entire serving whereas some of us had leftovers for lunch the next day. Fireside probably has a very seasoned cook who knew how to make brisket to perfection.

All entrees are served with your choice of fresh veggie. You can add soup or salad for an extra $1. Go for a salad because all of their dressings are homemade and very fresh tasting. The atmosphere of The Fireside is warm and friendly. The ambience is supper club-like. On Sundays you can enjoy the Bloody Mary bar to create your very own beverage just the way you want it. Make reservations on weekends. We were glad we did, even though the place was packed, we were able to linger at our fireside table.
